

Rejects couch but buys hotel

SUPERIOR, Neb. (AP) — Fredrick "Rick" Alexander had his eye on an antique, velvet-covered couch when he went to an auction, but he ended up with a hotel.

Alexander said that when he went to an auction of the old Union Hotel and its furnishings he thought the couch might be something his bride-to-be, Ann Sweet of Hardy, Neb., would like.

"I thought I had it (the couch) bought for $2, but the guy wanted $5 for it, and I thought it was too much money, so I didn't buy it," the 21-year-old University of Nebraska senior recalled Friday.

But he said he decided to hang around the recent auction anyway, and the bidding on the hotel itself started a short time later, at $15,000.

Alexander said no one was interested at that price, and openers eventually fell to $2,500.

Alexander then chimed in with a bid of $2,600. A few rounds later, he was proclaimed the hotel's new owner for the price of $3,000.

He also got the couch he wanted, along with all of the other furnishings left in the building, a landmark here since 1880.

"I didn't even really intend to buy the stupid thing, then after I bought it it kind of hit me," said Alexander.

"I'm going to keep it for a couple of years and see what happens from there."

Five persons now rent rooms, but there are a total of 22 rentable rooms which go for $3.50 per night, $15 per week or $50 per month, Alexander said he's thinking about raising the nightly charge to $4.

The retiring owner of the Union, Maurice Kilgore, claims the hotel was the first west of the Mississippi River to offer travelers private lavatories in their own rooms.

Alexander said it looks like

"the original ones" are still there.

He said he has already received several offers from people wanting to buy the 95-year-old structure, including Kilgore, who apparently had second thoughts about the money he got from the sale.

In addition, Alexander said a local antique dealer has told him that the furniture in the hotel's upstairs rooms is worth more than what he paid for the whole place.

Bangladesh calm after coup

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Pakistan, obviously pleased with the change in leadership in Bangladesh, moved quickly today to establish friendly relations with the country's new military-backed government.

An early morning announcement in Islamabad said that Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, acting on behalf of his government and the people of Pakistan, granted immediate recognition to the Islamic Republic of Bangladesh.

Radio Bangladesh broadcast the Pakistani announcement prominently, along with reports that the country remained calm a day after a military coup in which President Mujibur Rahman was slain.

The radio said a round-the-clock curfew was lifted for 3½ hours in the morning to enable persons to shop for food and other essential items. It was then reimposed for an indefinite period.

President Khondakar Mush-taque Ahmed was installed Friday after Mujibur was killed at his residence during the coup, according to Radio Bangladesh.

Ahmed said in a nationwide broadcast Friday night that the pre-dawn coup was carried out because Shiek Mujib had permitted corruption and did not solve the problems of Bangladesh, one of the world's poorest lands.

"There was corruption, nepotism and attempts to concentrate powers on one head," said Ahmed, a former ally of the 55-year-old shiek.

Pakistan was the first nation to recognize formally the new Bangladesh government. When Bangladesh was created during the December 1971 India-Pakistan war, India was the first to recognize the then provisional government based in Calcutta.

Bhutto, a long-time foe of Mujibur, waited until the Islamic summit conference in Lahore, Pakistan in February 1974 to officially recognize Bangladesh, which was Pakistan's eastern province until the 1971 war.

Ahmed, the new Bangladesh president, took part in secret negotiations during 1971 while in exile in Calcutta with other East Pakistan leaders to try to prevent a breakup of Pakistan. But the negotiations failed, and Ahmed was eventually dropped from the Bangladesh Foreign Ministry.

There was still no reaction to the coup from Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government, which openly backed the Bangladesh independence movement and sent Indian soldiers into the territory when it was still part of Pakistan to help Shiek Mujibur's freedom fighters, the Mukti Bahini.

Ahmed's 16-man civilian ministry met this morning for 40 minutes to review the situation in the country, according to Radio Bangladesh. No details were broadcast.

A separate announcement on the radio said the government had ordered all essential services to be maintained on a round-the-clock basis. The radio said the essential services include hospitals, electricity, milk and water supply and posts and telegraph and transport.

There were still no details about the death of Shiek Mujib. In Washington, State Department spokesman Robert F. Kennedy said Friday: "We have no information about the circumstances of the reported death of Shiek Mujibur Rahman. We had, of course, warm and friendly relations with Shiek Mujibur Rahman and naturally his death would be lamented by his many friends in the United States."

He said reports indicated the 820 Americans in Bangladesh are safe and Dacca was calm after the coup.

Little remains bitter toward judicial system

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Joan Little says her acquittal on charges of killing a white jailer has restored her faith in the ability of people to bind together for a cause, but not her faith in the judicial system.

"At this point I have not seen any justice. The only justice I received came from those 12 people sitting up in the jury box," the 21-year-old black woman said.

A jury of six whites and six blacks deliberated one hour and 18 minutes Friday before finding her innocent of second degree murder in the ice pick stabbing of a 62-year-old jailer.

Miss Little admitted stabbing Clarence Alligood, but she claimed she did so after he forced her to perform oral sex. The state argued she killed him in an escape plot.

Jury foreman Mark Nielsen smiled slightly as he stood and announced, "We find the defendant, Joan Little, not guilty."

There were brief tears from Miss Little, then she smiled, hugged her attorneys and left the courtroom with barely an acknowledgment to the cheers of supporters gathered outside.

Civil rights groups and feminist organizations had taken up the case in support of Miss Little. The National Organization for Women commented after the verdict, "NOW commends her fortitude and perseverance in this test case which certainly benefits all women."

But the victory was not unspoiled for Miss Little.

Superior Court Judge Hamilton Hobgood sent her chief defense attorney, Jerry Paul, to jail for 14 days for contempt because of a clash with the judge in the opening days of the five-week trial.

A fellow judge later upheld the contempt conviction, and defense attorneys said they planned to appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Miss Little herself still faces a 7-to-10-year prison term on the breaking and entering conviction for which she was confined at the time of the slaying. She is free on $15,000 bond pending appeal to the State Court of Appeals.

Mrs. Clarence Alligood, the widow of the slain jailer, was hanging clothes when the verdict was announced and commented, "Whatever I say might sound bad. No I don't think it was a fair trial, but I don't know the law. I just trust in the Lord that she'll get justice somewhere."

Nielsen said the jurors did not necessarily believe Miss Little's story completely, but he said they were unanimously against conviction because they did not think the state had made a case.

"The key was that the burden of proof was on the state and they didn't come close," said Nielsen, 26, an audio equipment salesman.

The state contended Miss Little stabbed Alligood last Aug. 27 in order to escape from the Beaufort County jail in Washington, N.C. The jailer's body, naked from the waist down, was found in the cell from which she had fled.

Miss Little was originally charged with first degree murder, which carries a mandatory death penalty. Hobgood reduced the charge after the state rested its case. The judge said the prosecution had not shown enough evidence of premeditation.

Beaufort County Dist. Atty. William Griffin, the chief prosecutor, said, "I've seen cases where less evidence than this resulted in a conviction." But he declined to comment.

The State Court of Appeals has agreed to hear Miss Little's appeal on the breaking and entering conviction on Sept. 23.

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger are meeting here amid reports that an Israeli-Egyptian interim accord is near and another Kissinger shuttle mission is imminent.

Kissinger, accompanied by his wife, Nancy, flew from Washington Friday night to brief the President today on latest Mideast developments.

Asked by newsmen on his arrival about reports from Israel and Egypt that he would resume shuttle diplomacy next week, Kissinger replied:

"We have been making progress during a week of intensive negotiations, but we haven't really settled it finely yet.... I don't want to characterize it as a breakthrough."

Kissinger said he and Ford would "review the status of the negotiations.... As you know, the Israeli cabinet is going to meet on Sunday, and there are a number of other things that need discussions."

White House aides said the secretary hoped to spend much of the weekend relaxing. The Kissingers are staying in a private residence near the chalet-style home that the Fords are renting.

As Ford neared the halfway point of his two-week working vacation, he planned to play golf for the sixth straight day today.

Before leaving Washington, Kissinger met for the third time in a week with Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz.

Kissinger said he would resume his Mideast shuttle diplomacy only when he was 90 per cent sure of concluding the accord.

Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said Friday in Tel Aviv he "would not be surprised" if Kissinger came to the Middle East before the end of next week to work out final details.

Allon said an agreement with Egypt is closer "than any time in the past" but that several problems still require clarification.

Cairo's semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram reported that Kissinger would fly to Israel on Wednesday and then go to the Egyptian resort city of Alexandria on Friday to meet with President Anwar Sadat. After completing his Israeli-Egyptian mission, the secretary will stop in Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia, Al Ahram said.

Allon said that if American personnel were sent to the Middle East as part of a disengagement agreement between Israel and Egypt, the personnel would be civilian and not military.

"This is not a military presence, but a civilian presence with more political than military meaning," he said in a television interview.

The idea of such a direct U.S. presence is considered a key to Israeli willingness to abandon the strategic Mitla and Gidi passes on the Sinai peninsula. The Americans would be stationed in a buffer zone to operate an electronic early warning system to detect infiltration into the area abandoned by Israel.

Kissinger earlier had said the stationing of civilian American personnel in the Sinai would be subject to congressional approval.

On Friday, an Israeli team of financial experts concluded two days of Washington talks on military and economic aid.

The original request was for $2.8 billion, but it is reported closer to $3 billion now because Israel seeks more oil to replace what it would lose by returning the Abu Rudeis oilfields in the Sinai to Egypt.

Anti-Klan operation made public by FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI ran a covert, 10-year operation to disrupt the Ku Klux Klan by distributing anonymous postcards and cartoons, forming a phony anti-Klan committee and planting anti-Klan articles in the news media, according to newly disclosed FBI documents.

The operation against the Klan and other so-called "white hate groups" such as the National States Rights party and the American Nazi party, was described in 125 pages of FBI files turned over Friday to reporters who petitioned for them under the Freedom of Information Act nine months ago.

The files provided the first public glimpse of the counterintelligence program, called Cointelpro by the FBI, against white hate groups. The FBI previously was forced to disclose documents dealing with operations against the Socialist Workers party and other leftist political groups.

The late J. Edgar Hoover, then the FBI director, launched the anti-Klan operation with a memo Sept. 2, 1961, which said in part:

"The devious maneuvers and duplicity of these groups must be exposed to public scrutiny through the cooperation of reliable news media sources, both locally and at the Seat of Government (Washington)."

"We must frustrate any effort of the groups to consolidate their forces to recruit new or youthful adherents. In every instance, consideration should be given to disrupting the organized activity of these groups...."

File memos said 17 FBI field offices, primarily in the South, participated in the operation. The offices were not listed, but the memos described activities conducted in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, North Carolina, Florida and Virginia.

Previously disclosed files show that Hoover terminated all Cointelpro operations in April 1971.

The memos describe the anonymous mailing of about 6,000 postcards to Klan members at their homes and offices "to cause public identification of Klan members and spread dis-sension."

Postcards were used since "a number of persons would read them before delivery, thus exposing the Klansman and removing one of the Klan's most potent weapons — its veil of secrecy," said an April 1966 memo.

Walker undaunted by hostile press

(Reprinted from the Illinois State Journal)
By ED ARMSTRONG

Gov. Daniel Walker is personally disliked—or, at least, held in disrespect—by most reporters of state politics and government in Illinois. Why?

This lack of press esteem does not seem to hurt the governor politically, however. Why?

These two questions are not easily answered, but here are some thoughts about them.

Reporters believe Gov. Walker is mostly style and image rather than real substance. He is slick: he is smart, he is adroit. He is a master talker who handles himself well before any crowd. At handshaking he is one of the best; he has a common touch that enables him to appear comfortable in almost any group or activity.

He is so unpredictable and so inconsistent in his approach to issues that it is impossible to classify him. He makes no secret of the fact that this is intentional; it is part of his style. If one gets labeled as a liberal, he is automatically opposed by conservatives; if he is considered a conservative, most liberals will be against him. But if he takes a conservative position on one issue and a liberal position on the next, nobody reacts to him automatically.

Gov. Walker's politics is the politics of confrontation. He cannot point to any great accomplishments—to any great changes in state government achieved during his administration. But he is a master at creating a bogeyman, someone with allegedly hurtful intentions from whom he has saved the people of the state.

This may be Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, who is disliked and perhaps even feared by many in the Chicago suburbs and downstate. The governor can ascribe all sorts of "evil" things to Daley, ranging from his practice of patronage politics to seeking state funds for Chicago at the expense of the remainder of the state.

It may be the legislature, or more likely the Republicans in the legislature, whom the governor can picture as exponents of higher taxes.

Gov. Walker already is practicing these techniques in preparation for his next campaign. He has said any substantial opponent in next year's primary would be a Daley stooge, and one of his first comments about potential general election opponent James Thompson was to the effect that Thompson apparently would be more willing to raise taxes than he would be.

When Daniel Walker was a candidate for governor, he promised a new kind of politics: the elimination of clout, particularly clout resulting from campaign contributions. But since his election his political fund raisers have gone back time after time to hit up for campaign contributions those persons who do business with the state. If such contributors are not buying clout, at least they are buying insurance against blacklisting.

The newsmen see all this and they become cynical about the governor. They feel he has no definable philosophy other than to do what seems most popular at the moment. They believe he has no definite program other than perhaps doing what's necessary to avoid a tax increase. They see him preaching a new kind of politics but practicing the old politics with expertise.

One reporter commented a few days ago that a major reason for newsmen's dislike for the governor is the fact that he uses the press to achieve his own political objectives. True, but so do most other politicians use the press. They try to get their achievements publicized and their failures minimized. I think the difference is the way Gov. Walker uses the press.

An example is the way his administration presented the amendatory veto of the school aid bill. The figures they gave newsmen represented the amount the governor reduced the school aid appropriation from his budget figure—not the reduction from what the legislature actually approved. But the real effect of the veto was the amount the legislature's appropriation was cut. So the figures the administration handed out were virtually meaningless and actually confusing.

Successful practice of confrontation politics requires frequent and effective use of the press. By that I mean use of all news media. Gov. Walker is a master at using the time he is accorded on radio and television and the space given his remarks in the newspapers to build his image as a David fighting any number of Goliaths on behalf of the people.

His adroitness frustrates reporters who try to box him in on a subject. In addition, reporters feel a compulsion to report what he says as he says it, seldom challenging his remarks but leaving that role to others. Few others, however, are any match for the governor, and no one else has the public relations apparatus that's available to him.

By DON OAKLEY

Amid the rumors and suspicions and allegations that the Central Intelligence Agency, with the knowledge of American presidents, plotted or perpetrated the assassination of certain foreign heads of state, a number of commentators have questioned whether this kind of secret, "gunpoint diplomacy" is necessarily and always evil.

Calling it not murder but tyrannicide, columnist John P. Roche asks, "Would it have been unconstitutional, immoral and generally dreadful if some American intelligence agent had put a 30-caliber slug into Hitler's skull in, say, 1937?"

On the face of it, it might appear that the 20th century would have been a far happier one had someone dispatched Herr Hitler when he first raised Nazism's ugly head. The same could be said about Torquemada and the 15th century, or Genghis Khan and the 12th century.

Perilous politics of tyrannicide

The argument collapses, however, as soon as we consider the death of a leader like Abraham Lincoln. Yet his assassin fervently believed that he was ridding the world of a tyrant. The student who assassinated the Archduke of Austria in 1914 and precipitated the First World War no doubt thought of his act as heroic.

Of course, neither of these "tyrannicides" nor others which have dramatically altered history, was the official act of an organized government. They were the work of fanatic individuals. Nevertheless, it would be perilous if we came to believe that even in the case of a Hitler we can set up a standard of morality for governments separate from that demanded of individuals in society.

Yes, it can be argued that it would have been a good thing if someone had killed Hitler in 1937. Perhaps Stalin, too. But what about Mussolini? And Franco? Once embarked on such a course, where would we stop?

The assassination of Fidel Castro in 1962 or 1963 would not have changed the factors that brought him into power in the first place, any more than the assassination of President Diem of South Vietnam was of benefit to that tragic land. And as for Adolph Hitler, there were other, nonmurderous means of dealing with him in 1937, if world statesmen had had the guts to stand up to him.

One feature distinguishing the American political experiment from all others before it was that it provided a peaceful means for changing rulers. If we ever reach the point where we practice a different morality in our dealings with foreign nations than we practice at home, if we adopt "tyrannicide" as a valid, even if only a last-resort, method of furthering national policy, we will have assassinated all that is best in ourselves.

Which Vietnam at U.N.?

Look closely: how many Vietnams do you see? There used to be two, and two have applied for membership of the United Nations; the Security Council has agreed to consider their applications.

The trouble is that neither of them makes any bones about wanting to unite with the other, and soon; one southern leader has said that the two zones are already talking about the steps to unification.

The Vietnam question ought to take up more of the United Nations' time, though it probably will not, than the attempt by some Arab governments to expel or suspend Israel which failed to get the Organization of African Unity's support.

The campaign against Israel's place in the U.N. is a political demonstration designed to put pressure on Israel; if the campaign is pushed to an attempt to bar Israel from the coming session of the General Assembly, as South Africa was barred from the last one, it would be by a procedural maneuver that could well violate the U.N.'s charter.

The Vietnam issue, by contrast, raises some real questions about the way the U.N. organizes itself. Almost immediately after North Vietnam's army defeated South Vietnam's in April, North Vietnamese officials published a map showing Hanoi as the capital of a single country. The estimate in April was that the reunification process would take about five years; it looks as if it could happen sooner.

There are two questions the U.N. will have to face. Are there two Vietnams? And should it (they) be seated now?

The answer to the first question is that there are two administrations, the government in the north makes the important decisions, and controls things in the south not only through the Provisional Revolutionary Government there but also through the one army and the one Communist party organization that both zones share.

There are a few precedents for countries having more than one seat in the U.N. The best-known is the case of Byelorussia and the Ukraine, integral parts of the Soviet Union, which were given seats of their own in 1945; this was part of a straightforward political deal that had to be made if there was to be any U.N. at all, in the days when Western Europe and much of Latin America tended to vote solidly with the United States.

The countries that found themselves split in two after 1945 did not become U.N. members. The two Koreas still are not, and South Korea's application was turned down again last week. The two Germanys now are, although they were not admitted until 1973, after they had signed a treaty recognizing each other; that is why, unlike the Koreas, they are considered U.N. worthy.

The second question, the political one, is whether any Vietnam, singular or plural, ought to be seated now. The argument against admission comes from Article 2 (4) of the U.N. charter, which says that members have to refrain from the "threat or use of force against . . . the political independence of any state." The state of South Vietnam now has the government it has—and will soon cease to have a separate existence—because North Vietnam sent its army into the south.

The North Vietnamese still keep part of their army in another nominally independent country, Laos. The argument in favor of admission, on the other hand, is that both the Vietnams have governments which are plainly in control of the territories they run and say, in their membership applications, that they are now willing to accept the U.N. charter. This is the real debate, not horse-trading a Korean seat for a Vietnamese one.

The United Nations has never faced anything quite like this before: An application from two governments, one of which has just helped to overthrow the other's predecessor in a war fought to decide, among other things, whether their countries should be two or one.

If the authorities now running the one and a half Vietnams show that they are there to stay (which they almost certainly are) and that they will leave their neighbors alone (which is less certain) they must eventually get the U.N. membership they want. But not this year.

A pause for reflection will give the world time to judge the likely foreign policy of this major new power in Asia; and to find out how many Vietnams there really are.

NATO, SEATO--let 'em die

By JOHN F. McMANUS

BELMONT, Mass.— One of the predictable side effects of the Communist victory in Southeast Asia has been a marked turn to the left on the part of Thailand and the Philippines. In a joint communique issued on July 24, Thai Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj and Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos called for an end to SEATO, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, saying that it "should be phased out to make it accord with the new realities in the region."

Those "new realities" include the recent establishment by the two nations of diplomatic relations with Red China. Once staunchly anti-Communist, both have reached the unfortunate but realistic conclusion that Communism is the dominant force in Asia.

Before Americans shed tears over SEATO's sinking fortunes, we ought to recall that it was under the auspices of SEATO that we got involved in Vietnam. And because our hands were tied by SEATO a successful and speedy conclusion to the war was never sought. If we had not been a partner in SEATO, the United States might never have entered the Vietnam war; or, had we done so, we would have been free to conduct the struggle with victory as the goal.

SEATO was launched by the Eisenhower Administration in 1954. The eight original members (Great Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand, and the United States) pledged themselves to mutual protection against Communist aggression. The first undertaking of the organization was the preservation of the "neutrality" of Laos, Cambodia, and South Vietnam. Never was there any slightest mention of victory over Communism. And, as was to be expected, events in Southeast Asia have once again confirmed that it is sheer folly merely to seek "neutrality" in the face of Communist designs.

SEATO was, for Southeast Asia, a carbon copy of NATO, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which had been launched with similar fanfare in 1949. Just as SEATO was used to get us into the Vietnam War, NATO had been used earlier by President Truman to get us into our first no-win war in Korea.

Most will recall that, in Korea, we fought under the UN flag and were not permitted to defeat Communism. Years later in Vietnam, the UN flag was nowhere to be seen but the situation was the same. In 1966, our State Department published the fact that SEATO "was designed as a collective defense arrangement under Article 51 of the UN Charter." And Article 51 requires that measures taken by member nations "shall be immediately reported . . . and shall not in any way affect the authority and responsibility of the Security Council."

In his book, "Marxism and the National Question," published in 1942, Joseph Stalin looked ahead to global conquest and offered a plan for destroying free nations. He said: "Divide the world into regional groups as a transitional stage to total world government. Populations will more readily abandon their national loyalties to a vague regional loyalty than they will for a world authority. Later, the regionals can be brought all the way into a single world dictatorship of the proletariat." Not to recognize that Stalin's plan is being implemented strains naive beyond the breaking point.

American internationalists and pro-Communists will work to save SEATO, even as they work to save NATO in spite of the presence in it of newly Communist Portugal and other America-haters. As for us, we say that NATO, SEATO, and other like groupings have weakened America and served Communist designs. The time has come to let them die so that we can once again be the masters of our own fate.

'Near miss' study launched

The nation's overall traffic fatality toll decreased by 17 per cent in 1974 as compared with 1973, but the number of deaths resulting from uneven contests between trains and motor vehicles climbed by 8 per cent.

The National Safety Council recorded nearly 1,400 traffic fatalities at grade crossings last year, up from the 1,300 recorded in 1973. In addition, it says, there was "a tremendous number" of incidents in which vehicles narrowly escaped being struck.

In an effort to combat the increase, the council is putting new emphasis on an individualized program of motorist education called the "Near Miss Program."

Under the program, explains its volunteers chairman, Otto F. Sonefeld, an official of the Santa Fe Railroad, cooperating railroads have instructed their train crews, where possible, to record the license numbers and identifying characteristics of vehicles that try to beat the train across a grade crossing.

Where the ownership of the vehicle can be established, the railroad personally contacts the driver or organization that owns the vehicle to point out the seriousness of the situation. If personal contact isn't possible, a letter is sent to the vehicle owner, and in all cases, a data card on the incident is sent to the council's headquarters in Chicago where the information is computerized.

The railroads' contacts with the driver involved "are strictly educational and not intended to be punitive in any way," Sonefeld stresses. The reaction from most drivers has been favorable, he says. Many simply are not aware of the hazards inherent at every grade crossing.

Co-operating railroads have reported 1,362 near misses in the past 2½ years. In more than half the cases, the train was 100 feet or less from the crossing when the vehicle cleared the tracks.

When enough data on grade-crossing incidents is gathered, the council plans to use the information for further educational programs and as a basis for possible legislative action aimed at cutting the number of vehicle-train accidents and near misses.

... for and about women

Dear Ann by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from the woman who had to drag herself to the nursing home once a week to spend an hour with her semi-senile mother really got to me. Too bad she found the old lady's "crazy chatter" so depressing. I wonder how she'd like to have had her mother living with her for the last seven years. And what if she had to drive her to the beauty shop, the bank, shopping, to the doctor, to church meetings — any place Mother decided to go on a moment's notice. What if she did all this and never received one word of thanks — only criticism and complaints?

I would be overjoyed if I could go visit MY mother every day in a nursing home. It would certainly improve my relationship with my husband and children. Our family has been in a state of upheaval ever since Mother came to live with us. They say I'm a fool to let her run me ragged. Maybe I am but I love my mother and feel it is my responsibility.

But at times I ask myself if I am being fair to my husband and children. One thing is certain, no child of mine will ever go through this kind of hell with me. — Seven Years Depressed

Dear S.Y.: Any person who has been "Seven Years Depressed" is long overdue for counseling. I sense a martyr complex in your letter plus an enormous amount of ambivalence and resentment.

Is there no public transportation in your city? No taxi? Discuss these alternatives with a therapist and get your head together, woman. I'm glad you wrote. Your letter was a cry for help — even though you didn't mean it to be.

Dear Ann Landers: There was a time when my husband and I could travel and enjoy a full life. But now he is not well and we are both getting on in years. So we stay at home a great deal and make the best of it.

We have certain radio and TV shows that we like to listen to and watch. It is our major form of entertainment. This couple we've known for a long time has a habit of dropping in unexpectedly and it seems they always come right in the middle of a very good show. They stay only 25 or 30 minutes — just long enough to ruin a program for us. This puts my husband in a very bad mood.

Should we turn off the radio or TV when they show up — or say we'd like to finish the program and risk insulting them? — Sitting Ducks

Dear Ducky: Don't do either. Simply tell them the next time they show up that you'd appreciate it if they'd call before coming. Explain that you and your husband watch and listen to certain radio and TV shows and when THEY come you'd like to give them your undivided attention.

Dear Ann: If my penmanship looks shaky it's because I'm still shook. I took an attractive woman to dinner last night. She has done some import buying in the Orient and is very sophisticated.

When the menus were presented, she took a wad of gum out of her mouth and stuck it behind her ear. I looked horrified. She said, "Relax — it's an old Chinese custom. Even the very aristocratic do it."

True or false? — Small Town Boy

Dear S.T.B.: False. And if this is your idea of "sophistication" — you need a dictionary, honey.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL HUBBARD

Miss Christine Ann John, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry John, Dixon, recently became the wife of Michael D. Hubbard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, Siloam Springs, Ark.

The Rev. Robert Zetterberg performed the ceremony in the Bethel Evangelical Church, Dixon. Darrell John, brother of the bride from Dixon, was vocalist. He was accompanied by Don John, uncle of the bride from Dixon, on the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white sateu gown in princess style. The gown was styled with a bib front, trimmed with French imported lace and seed pearls, long fitted sleeves, ring neckline and a gathered flounce with a sweeping cathedral-length train. The bride wore a matching elbow-length mantilla and carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses, stephanotis, lily of the valley, ivy strands and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Miss Janet Roberts, Topeka, Kan., who wore a yellow organza medallion-trimmed capelet gown with cummerbund and a long sash over the full skirt. For her bouquet, she carried a crescent cascade of Elegance carnations, white Marguerite daisies and white snowflake pompons with ivy strands.

Identical gowns in shades of apricot, blue and pink were worn by bridesmaids Miss Nita Hubbard, sister of the groom from Tulsa, Okla., Miss Debbie Meyer, cousin of the bride from Peoria, Mrs. Debbie Aguilar, Rockford. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Cindy and Linda Sullivan, Dixon, attired in green and orchid color dresses. Each of the attendants wore picture hats and carried bouquets matching their gowns.

Serving his brother as best man was Bob Hubbard, Siloam Springs, Ark. Leslie Lawson, El Paso, Tex., Bill Cunningham, Joplin, Mo., and Barry Corkern, Fayetteville, Ark., were groomsmen. Gerald Boy seated guests.

Participating as ceremonial flower girl was Little Miss Kathy Koch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Koch, Rockford. She wore a long yellow dress and carried a wicker basket filled with rose petals. Her headpiece was a garland of white Marguerite daisies, Elegance carnations and baby's breath. Christopher Barnhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Barnhart, Amboy, was ringbearer.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the church parlor. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Gaul, Dixon. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Diane Carlson and Miss Cyndi Gunderson, Rockford, Mrs. Janet Radtke, Loves Park, and Mrs. Gary Mickel, Siloam Springs, Ark.

Following their honeymoon in Disney World the couple have been residing in Siloam Springs, Ark.

The new Mrs. Hubbard is a 1969 graduate of Amboy High School. She is also a graduate of Sauk Valley College and John Brown University, Siloam Springs, Ark., with a degree in business education. She is presently employed in the marketing department of Citation Mfg. Co., Ark. She is a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

Mr. Hubbard attended the University of Arkansas and Missouri Southern State College. He is currently warehouse manager for Allen Canning Co., Ark. He is a member of Kappa Alpha.

The bride was honored at three showers. A miscellaneous shower in the Sullivan home at Amboy. A personal shower was given by Mrs. James O'Neal in Grand Detour, and a linen shower was given by Mrs. Vernon Near, Dixon.

Get expert advice when you need it

With practice and experience you can become a good money manager. But even the best managers may need expert assistance with special problems, says Joan L. Bonnett, University of Illinois Extension family economics specialist.

You may want to consult professional specialists for financial guidance from time to time. Their services may outweigh any charges for information you get from them, she says.

Here is a list of professional financial specialists available to help you:

Banker: Clarify uncertainties about your general financial situation, banking, and credit matters with the bank where you do business. If further information is needed, the banker can usually recommend other reliable resource persons, agencies, or organizations.

Lawyer: Ask what considerations should be made in a will. Individuals and families with even modest means want to know that their funds will be allocated as they wish in the event of death. Mrs. Bonnett continues. Check also on power-of-attorney arrangements should they be needed. If you are legally separated, di-voiced, or widowed, you may need legal services to help enforce the provisions of court decrees or wills.

Insurance agent: Talk with this professional about your needs for life and health insurance or how to use your existing policies, suggests Mrs. Bonnett. Questions can also be answered about coverage for your possessions, home, and automobile.

Internal Revenue Service officer: Discuss your income tax questions without charge through the services of this specialist.

Social Security administrator: Check on your Social Security benefits or those of your children or parents at your district Social Security office, she continues. If you employ household or child care helpers, or farm workers, be sure to learn the regulations for making quarterly Social Security and income tax payments.

Credit Counselor: Seek assistance from a non-profit counseling service if debts have accumulated beyond your ability to "see your way out." Your Better Business Bureau, Chamber of Commerce, or creditors should be able to provide information on this kind of help, Mrs. Bonnett concludes.

Twelve ways you can save at the store

To help you save money at the grocery store, Irene Downey, University of Illinois Extension food and nutrition specialist, lists the following suggestions:

Divide grocery money into equal weekly amounts: Try not to "borrow" from next week's allowance. This way money should last all month.

Watch for newspaper and store ads and coupons: Take advantage of coupons and sale items, but be sure your family will use a "bargain." If they won't, it's no saving, MS. Downey says.

Plan ahead: Plan ahead for the main foods you will cook for the next several days. Are there items on sale this week that you can use? Using coupons and newspaper ads may make planning ahead easier. Check how much storage space you have for groceries. And remember to plan around leftovers.

Make a list: Add items as you discover you need them during the week. Finish writing the list before you go shopping.

Do most of your shopping once a week: If possible, try to buy most of your groceries at one time. You will save time and not spend as much money on "extras." You will save on gasoline, too.

Stick to the list: Don't be tempted to buy things you had not planned on getting, unless you find less expensive substitutes for items on your list.

Shop by yourself: Go without your friends, then you won't be led astray by items they buy, Ms. Downey continues. If possible, avoid taking your children with you.

Go when you aren't hungry: Shop on a full stomach; you aren't apt to be tempted when you aren't hungry.

Compare brands: Usually the store brand is cheaper, but not always.

Compare different stores: Look at prices in several stores if you have a choice, and if it does not use too much gasoline. It will take longer, but you can get the best buys from each store. If you find one store is generally less expensive, stick with it.

Compare forms of food: Buy a lower-cost form of the product if it will meet your needs.

Canned tomato pieces are usually cheaper than whole tomatoes and can be used for stews and sauces.

"Day-old" bread is as good as regular, if it is to be eaten soon or put in the freezer.

Non-fat dry milk can be used for cooking and drinking. Take time to compare frozen, fresh, and canned products.

Test yourself: Check your groceries as you put them away. Did you really stick to your list and buy only what you had planned?

Try following these tips every time you shop for groceries, Ms. Downey concludes. With their help, you can save money.

Sub-let Indians to meet

The regular meeting of the Sub-Let Indians 4-H Club will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m., at Sublette Centennial Park, if weather permits.

A talk will be given by Doug Erbes. Demonstrations will be given by Cheryl Lorenzana and Rodney Rod. Lunch will be served by Rodney, Patti and Ross Rod, and Diane Malach.

25th anniversary observed

Mr. and Mrs. James Merritt, Dixon, will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary.

The former Helen Brechon and Mr. Merritt were married August 19, 1950 in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Dixon, by the Rev. James Molloy. They have one daughter, Debbie, also in Dixon.

50th anniversary celebration today

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Malach, Rt. 3, Box 238, Louisville, Tenn. 37777, is Aug. 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Malach are former residents of Sublette and will celebrate the event today with relatives from this area.

Questers meet

The Questers Nachusa Chapter recently enjoyed a picnic supper and meeting at the Elwood Cruise cabin, Moonlight Bay.

Mrs. Olin Hall was in charge of the action following the meal. A business meeting was conducted by president, Mrs. Verne Johnson. Committee reports were heard and an announcement of state Quester's meeting was made for Oct. 3 in Rockford.

A field trip is being planned for the chapter's regular meeting and reservations for members and guests are being taken now by Mrs. Elwood Cruise for the evening meal at Parkway Village.

Chicken curry

It has a fruit-laden sauce that is not spicy.

3-pound fryer chicken, cut up
3 teaspoons curry powder
Salt and pepper to taste
1 tablespoon salad oil
1 medium onion, sliced
2 bananas, sliced
1 apple, cubed
2 cloves garlic, minced
8-ounce can crushed pineapple, undrained
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1 cup clear fat-free chicken broth

Sprinkle chicken with 1 teaspoon of the curry powder and salt and pepper. In a large skillet heat oil and fry chicken until brown; remove chicken. Add onion, banana, apple, garlic, pineapple, flour, remaining 1/2 teaspoon curry and the paprika to the pan and heat. Return chicken to the pan and add broth. Simmer, covered, until chicken is tender, about 1 hour. Serve with rice and chutney.

(This recipe comes from a delightful new regional cookbook, "Catskill Country Cooking" published by the Auxiliary of Community General Hospital of Sullivan County, N.Y. Prepare this Chicken Curry the day of serving to prevent banana in sauce darkening too much.)

Golden anniversary to be observed

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT BARTLETT

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bartlett, Franklin Grove, will be honored in their home August 24 with an open house to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

The former Mabel Gordon and Mr. Bartlett were married August 22, 1925 in Dixon. They are the grandparents of 17 grandchildren and the great-grandparents of eight.

The open house will be from 1-4 p.m. All friends and relatives are invited to attend. The omission of gifts is requested.

Golf champs announced

Winners in the nine hole event were Mrs. David Ames Jr., Mrs. Don Beede, Mrs. James Green, Mrs. John Caluwaert, Mrs. Spencer Johnson and Mrs. Don Rich.

Winners from the evening group were Mrs. James Naylor, Mrs. Reynolds Baker, Mrs. Russell Flower, Mrs. Charles Hansen, Mrs. Dwight Young, Mrs. Laurin Williamson, Mrs. Degan Kness, Mrs. Leland Shoff, Mrs. Floyd Smith and Mrs. Don Hoffman.

Attention! Prospective brides

Because of misunderstanding on wedding pictures. The Telegraph is asking prospective brides to arrange for good black-and-white wedding pictures for use with wedding stories.

Color photographs and black-and-white prints off a color negative are unsatisfactory for good newspaper reproduction.

Rather than be disappointed by having a picture rejected by the newspaper, we are advising brides to insist on a black-and-white picture shot with black-and-white film.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-642: Albert J., aged 22, is a seminary student.
"Dr. Crane," he began, "I've found that if I follow your advice and insert some relevant stories into my sermon, the audience stays awake."
"But where is a quick place to obtain such suitable stories?"

Stories Please
Jesus held His audiences spellbound.

And it wasn't because they believed He was the Son of God! For even His 12 Apostles weren't sure of that or they'd never have deserted Him at Calvary!

No, Jesus held His audiences because He was the greatest Applied Psychologist ever to walk on this Earth.

So He mixed humor and narrative stories (parables) with His incisive moral precepts.

He also used audience participation techniques, including holding up a coin.

And Christ cleverly side-stepped dangerous two-horned dilemmas by answering a question with a question!

That's the "Reversible Why" technique we teach star salesmen to employ in order to dominate the interview.

But Christ lifted his stories from the everyday experiences of his fellow townsmen, including farmers, shepherds, carpenters, housewives and probably the tales of the tradesmen who came to the village.

Nowadays, young preachers should all subscribe to "Quote," which is a weekly magazine containing pertinent comments by world leaders, plus several pages of good clean humor, suitable for sermons.

It is published at Anderson, S. C. 29621, and is widely used by topnotch pulpit orators, as well as Speech Department's of our many universities.

Here are a few "meaty" quotes, typical of each issue:

Dr. Cort R. Flint: "You are often sorry for saying a harsh word, but you never regret saying a kind one!"

George Eliot: "The proper function of women is to make reasons for husbands to stay at home and still stronger reasons for bachelors to go out."

George Bernard Shaw: "We have no more right to consume happiness without producing it, than to consume wealth without producing it."

Here's a sample of the stories:

A clerk in a jewelry store was getting married, but the ceremony had him somewhat confused.

When it came time to present the bride with the ring, he hesitated.

"With this ring..." gently prodded the minister.

"With this ring," the bridegroom eagerly continued, "we give a written guarantee, assuring the customer that the price will be refunded, if it is not exactly as represented!"

Shelby Friedman's typical quotes also appear regularly, as:

"Trouble with some of today's smart kids — they don't smart in the right place."
And for 200 choice quotations on music, religion, gardening, love and dozens of other topics, go to your local library and borrow a copy of my college textbook, "Psychology Applied," for such quotes are run at the bottom of various pages therein.

They make splendid sermon topics and sparkling final sentences to end your orations with a scholarly "bang."
Also, send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs.)

Norway inches way to oil riches

OSLO, Norway (AP) — In five years Norway will be one of the world's major petroleum exporters. But the country has chosen to bridle the bonanza, and get rich as slowly and gracefully as it can.

A blend of practicality, idealism and righteousness will hold down production, limit exploration and keep a tight rein on how much of the expected profits of $3 billion a year are sluiced back into the economy once the oil production target level is reached in 1980.

Some Norwegians, including Finance and Foreign Ministry officials, have said that their approach, rejecting quick growth and profits, could serve as an example to the West. Others, less inclined to give lessons, say Norway is acting the only way it can to avoid drowning in its oil wealth.

The riches are these: With barely 20 per cent of its continental shelf explored, Norway will be producing 630 million barrels of oil a year by 1980. The figure is a self-imposed limit, which will be six times Norway's own needs, and about 10 per cent of Western Europe's projected consumption.

In the area of initial production, in the North Sea below the 62nd Parallel, the Ministry of Industry has estimated that Norway's reserves put it on a par with Venezuela and Algeria. Although the government has been cautious on estimates of how much oil could be found above the 62nd Parallel—where test drilling will begin in 1977, some experts say there is likely to be three or four times as much as below and others have projected that the reserves could be as great as the entire Middle East.

"We could be going very much faster and we've been criticized about our selfishness by some people," said Trade Minister Einar Magnusson in an interview. "The problem is, of course, that we'd tear our society apart in the process."

The Norwegians see their new wealth as a threat to the traditional areas of activity—like fishing and farming—which they consider socially important. The difficulty comes because Norway, with a population of four million, has had only 0.8 unemployment in 1975 and new jobs would pull people away from the fishing boats and farms and tend to depopulate the north of the country.

At its peak, the oil industry will employ about 30,000 people. Magnusson says it is not the industry itself but spending the profits that provides the danger because government projections show that for every $230 million put into public improvements 19,000 new jobs are created. This would be more jobs than people available.

Norway could import foreign workers, but the official position is that the country does not want to import anyone to turn them into a second-class citizen. There is also no small amount of unspoken racism involved in bringing in workers from southern Europe and North Africa.

With its employment dilemma, Norway will hold down its revenues, spending half of the yearly profits of $3 billion in private consumption, a quarter in the public field, with the rest going into paying debts and making foreign investments.

Since the oil is expected to last between 100 and 150 years, the foreign investments will provide future wealth without directly involving the Norwegian economy.

The relatively slow pace will also let Norwegians take over virtually all the expert jobs in the oil industry, many of which have been held by Americans, Britons and Frenchmen.

But there has been criticism of the government's approach, although the polls give it 60 per cent approval. Trouble in the shipbuilding industry, partially attenuated because the biggest shipbuilders have gotten into the construction of oil rigs, has led to some calls to speed things up. Resistance among fishermen in the north, fearing pollution, is dying down and fears of turning society upside down seem to be lessening as well.

The Doctor Says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — What would cause a person to have a different blood pressure reading in one arm from the other? In fact, the last time it was difficult to obtain a blood pressure reading in my left arm at all. This condition has existed for 17 years already. I am 64 years old and have high blood pressure, last reading in my right arm was 190 over 94. I am 5 feet 6 inches tall, weight 138 pounds.

DEAR READER — One of the most common causes is a variation in the location of the artery in the arm. Then when the pressure is taken the examiner has difficulty in finding the right place to pick up the sounds.

Beyond that you can have sudden fluctuations in blood pressure. I am surprised how many people do not appreciate that blood pressure responds as a reflex. The pressure won't change as quick as you get a knee jerk from tapping the knee or as the eye blinks, but it isn't too much slower. Reflexes can shut down small blood vessels almost as fast, and the pressure rises at once, or the vessels open and the pressure falls at once.

Then there is the possibility of an obstruction to the artery supplying your left arm. This can occur from a birth defect (a variant of coarctation of the aorta). The artery to the left arm comes directly off the main artery (aortic arch) from the heart. When the arch is constricted just before the origin of that artery, you may have high blood pressure in your right arm and low blood pressure in the left arm. The reverse of this does not occur (low pressure in the right arm and high in the left arm).

This particular birth defect is associated with the point where an arterial shunt exists between the pulmonary and aortic arteries during fetal life. The artery normally shunts blood around the lungs, because the fetus isn't using the lungs. It closes at birth, but the point of its attachment to the aorta may result in a constriction in a few cases.

Then you could have an obstruction in the origin of the artery to the arm from a buildup of fatty-cholesterol deposits. You would be more prone to this problem because of high blood pressure. However, 17 years ago at age 47 you would be most unlikely to have that problem. Women are not prone to fatty-cholesterol deposits at that age unless they already have a serious medical problem such as high blood pressure, diabetes, or kidney disease. This leads me to think your problem is either in difficulty in the technique of taking your pressure or a mild birth defect.

Honest Abe goes for $35

Insurance broker peddles campaign buttons

CHICAGO (AP) — The ink is smeared and faded but the serene visage of Abraham Lincoln is still there.

It's not a well-traveled five spot. It's the black, brown and white button that Honest Abe's campaign workers were pinning on lapels back in his 1860 drive for the White House.

"It'll cost you $35," says Frank Enten of Bethesda, Md. "If it were in real good condition, I could get, maybe, a hundred and a quarter for it."

Enten, 40, has forgotten more about campaign buttons than most will ever know. He has 1,000 buttons in his personal collection and thousands more for sale.

An insurance broker by vocation, he peddles buttons from a pushcart on weekends in Washington. His stock includes an Alf Landon for $9, a William McKinley for $12, and an old Bull Moose pin left over from 1912 for $8.50.

A complete Robert A. Taft campaign kit from the 1952 GOP National Convention goes for $12, but Enten will let go of a maroon necktie bearing the white, painted likeness of "Mr. Republican" for $5.

Enten's own collection goes heavy on buttons from the campaigns of Woodrow Wilson, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

"I guess I specialize in candidates who interest me," he said while hawking his goods at a Chicago convention of the Young Americans for Freedom. "I had a great Barry Goldwater collection, but the thing got completely out of hand and I had to sell it off."

Enten gets the buttons by scouring flea markets and antique stores and trading with other collectors, some of whom belong to the 3,000-member American Political Items Collectors.

The collectors led the drive for one of the less noticed pieces of recent congressional legislation, the Hobbies Protection Act, which makes it a crime to forge an antique campaign button.

Enten, whose Wilson collection is on display at Woodrow Wilson House in Washington, became interested in political memorabilia in 1960 when he bought several printed copies of John F. Kennedy's inaugural address. It occurred to him that he could buy some more, hang onto them for a while and then sell them to collectors at a profit. His plan worked and "it just grew from there."

"Sometimes when I get fed up with things, I just take off," he said. "I hit the flea markets and the antique stores. I go to five or six conventions a year. Sometimes my wife flips out because I spend so much time on it, but I have to do it."

"I could make a living out of it, I guess, but my wife wouldn't approve," Enten said. Enten also manufactures buttons with contemporary political slogans and sells those, too. One that was popular with the Young Americans for Freedom, most of whom are followers of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, says: "Ford is an Edsel."

But Enten is prouder of another of his creations, which bears a color photograph of the President and Mrs. Ford standing arm-in-arm before the American flag in the Oval Office.

Grand Slam winner is Chicago woman

CHICAGO (AP) — Dorothy Tedesco will receive $1,000 a month for the rest of her life, courtesy of the Illinois State Lottery.

Mrs. Tedesco of the Chicago suburb of Oak Lawn won the Grand Slam game top prize Friday night.

She went to the drawing with her daughter and daughter-in-law. Though Mrs. Tedesco said she did not anticipate winning the top prize, her daughter did.

"I knew she'd win. I thought positive all week long," her daughter said.

Mrs. Tedesco said she hopes "to retire and spend it."

But her daughter-in-law had a different idea. "We're going to Mexico," she said.

The $25,000 second-prize winner was Diane Bay O'Neal of Chicago. She said she has three children, and does not know how she will use her winnings.

T.M. Perry of Johnston City was the $10,000 winner, and James E. Harp of Evansville, Ind., and John J. Nolan of Chicago each won $5,000.

Here are the winning numbers in the weekly Grand Slam game picked in Friday night's Illinois State Lottery:

Black Navy officer sues 5 commanders

CHICAGO (AP) — Discriminatory practices by five white commanding officers ruined the military career of a black Navy lieutenant, the officer charges in a $1.5 million class action suit.

Lt. Frank Alvarez Jr., 34, filed the suit Friday in U.S. District Court.

The suit charges Alvarez was "locked" in the psychiatric ward at the Great Lakes Naval Base Hospital for five days last fall after he attempted to implement the Navy's race relations education program. Alvarez was a race relations instructor for the program at the hospital.

The officers abused their authority and violated the Navy's own regulations and state laws by placing Alvarez in the psychiatric ward on Sept. 20, 1974, immediately after he conducted a race relations seminar, the suit said.

According to the suit, Alvarez, who enlisted 16 years ago on his 18th birthday and was assigned to Great Lakes in 1972, was denied extension as an active duty reserve officer on June 25 and reduced to inactive reserve status, thereby losing all pay and retirement benefits.

Named as defendants were Rear Adm. Warren H. O'Neil, commandant of the Ninth Naval District and Great Lakes Naval Training Center commander; Capt. Almon C. Wilson, the hospital's commanding officer; Cmdr. James J. DeVane, the hospital's executive officer; Capt. W.J. Wagner, the hospital's deputy commander, and Cmdr. Gary L. Almy, the hospital's chief of the psychiatry department.

The suit seeks $750,000 in compensatory damages and the same amount in punitive damages, and demands an injunction barring O'Neil and the other four from "threatening, intimidating or incarcerating persons because of race, color or national origin, or because they advocate equal opportunity for all."

Alvarez said in telephone interview that although he was not physically abused while in the psychiatric ward, he was forced to scrub floors and clean shelves.

A resident of Evanston with his wife and three children, Alvarez said he plans to finish his final year at Lake Forest College and then enter Northwestern University for two years in a hospital administration program.

The suit said Alvarez was put in the ward after submitting a memorandum he was ordered to prepare by DeVane before the annual hospital inspection by the inspector general of the Navy.

The memo included Alvarez' assessment of the race relations education program and "was critical of the command, i.e., it pointed out Commander DeVane's lack of progress in implementing the Navy's human goals program," the suit said.

The suit added that O'Neil warned Alvarez "not to take the issue of race relations too seriously and to de-emphasize the issue on the base."

O'Neil's public affairs officer said he would not comment until he read the suit.

Ambulance service finalized

ROCHELLE — The Rochelle City Council held a special meeting Friday afternoon to discuss matters regarding the community's emergency ambulance service, which is to be taken over by the Rochelle Fire Department starting Sept. 1.

Bids for the purchase of a second ambulance for the district are to be advertised. The purchase was made possible by a donation not to exceed $20,000 from Flag Township for the ambulance. The money came from the township's revenue-sharing funds. A stipulation was made that if the money is accepted, the same fee be charged to all members of Flag Township, which includes Rochelle plus an adjacent area.

Emergency rates for ambulance service were established by the council. Residents in Flag Township and Rochelle will be charged $35 for a call. Others will be charged $100 per call. Additionally, $7.50 will be charged for oxygen, $15 for a special attendant, and $5 for special replaceable equipment used during a call.

Fire Chief William Lower informed the council that a request for a rescue truck made three years ago was approved by the Illinois Department of Transportation. Seventy percent of the cost of the truck will be covered by state funds, according to Lower, the remainder must be met by the city.

3 injured in car accident

Three people were treated and released from Sterling Community General Hospital following a Friday night accident on Nelson road.

Hospitalized were Gregory L. Burall, 20, Oregon; Jeffrey R. Bass, Rock Falls, and Nancy A. Williamson, Nelson. Burall, the driver of the car was attempting to turn right onto Nelson road from a private drive. He was reportedly unable to slow at the intersection, crossed the road and came to rest in a ditch. Burall was ticketed for driving too fast for conditions and for having faulty brakes. The ambulance taking the three to Sterling hospital was reportedly held up for more than 10 minutes by a train near Nelson.

Man arrested

Dixon Police officers arrested Cleve Burkette Jr., 21, rural Dixon, and charged him with indecent exposure, Friday.

Police were informed by employees of the Ramada Inn that Burkette was creating a disturbance there Friday afternoon. Burkette was released from jail on bond and is to appear in court Sept. 2.

Tax relief to $89,000

SPRINGFIELD — The director of the state agency that administers Circuit Breaker tax relief programs for senior and disabled Illinois residents said today that $89,000 people—twice as many as a year ago—had received property tax relief this year.

Speaking at an awards presentation for senior citizens during Golden Age Day at the Illinois State Fair, Revenue Director Robert H. Allphin said the 89,000 people had shared through the first week in August a total of $14.9 million in relief of 1974 property taxes. He said the average grant was $168.42, nearly $20 more than the average a year ago.

At mid-August 1974, the department had awarded a total of $5.9 million in property tax relief to 39,800 senior and disabled Illinois residents.

Allphin said that 115,000 people, including the elderly and handicapped property taxpayers, had received a second grant averaging $80 under a tax relief program signed into law by Gov. Dan Walker last April.

The additional grant program has provided more than $9 million in tax relief.

"We're encouraged for a lot of reasons that more people are taking advantage of these programs," Allphin said. "I don't think a person could find anything more disturbing than the thought that taxes could force people from the homes they put a life's work into."

"For the most part, these are the same people who for many years paid their taxes faithfully and supported services for other Illinois citizens. Now, they're faced with meeting rising costs on fixed incomes. It's here that the Circuit Breaker program can mean the difference between keeping the family home and being forced out of it."

"We have reached more people this year, but that still isn't good enough. Too many people still don't know about Circuit Breaker."

Allphin encouraged people to help by informing others of the benefits available to senior and disabled persons through the Circuit Breaker Law.

State Fair winding up

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois State Fair enters its final weekend today, with mayors and other local officials from throughout the state scheduled to be the featured guests.

The 10-day-long fair, which ends Sunday, is billed as the nation's largest livestock show. Most livestock exhibitors removed their animals Wednesday, though, and the fair now most resembles a gigantic carnival.

The National Weather Service predicted cool weather and the chance of showers for today's activities, which include a reception for the local officials and an opportunity to meet with members of Gov. Daniel Walker's cabinet.

Wet weather forced cancellation of all harness racing at the fair Friday, as thousands of senior citizens thronged to the fairgrounds for activities in their honor.

The rain held off Friday, despite threatening clouds. But soaking rains on Wednesday and Thursday left the racetrack too muddy for competition, officials said.

Races scheduled on Wednesday and Thursday had been postponed until Friday, but all races were canceled Friday afternoon. Fair officials had expected 10,000 senior citizens to show up for the special fair activities.

In honor of "Golden Age Day," persons over 60 were admitted free until noon.

Carlyle Hall, a 100-year-old

Springfield resident, won the award as the oldest man at the fair. Grace Frankenfeld, 88, of Pana was honored as the senior woman in attendance.

A 16-member group from La Harpe, "The Musical Belles," won the kitchen band competition for ensembles of tin pans, washboards and other assorted implements.

Gov. Daniel Walker also chose the occasion to sign a bill passed by the 1975 General Assembly making the third Sunday in August Senior Citizens Day in Illinois. Since the bill will not become law until Oct. 1, the first observance of the new holiday will come in 1976.

A 15-year-old high school freshman from Morton, Christy

Yordy, was named the fair's top cook, winning the annual bake-off contest with a cheese-cake topped with strawberries.

Christy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Yordy, won $100 in prizes and a silver cake dish.

Second place went to Mrs. Edwin Myers of Dixon, whose entry was a strawberry jelly roll.

Dixon youth arrested

A rural Dixon youth was arrested by Franklin Grove police following a disturbance there early this morning.

Dennis Pottorff, 19, was charged with resisting a police officer. He was transported to the Law Enforcement Center where he was released on bond. An Aug. 28 court date has been set for Pottorff.

Four injured in crash

Four Dixon residents were treated and released from KSB Hospital, following a two-car collision early this morning.

Elmilindo L. Fazzi, 56, 603 N. Galena Ave., skidded 117 feet through a stop sign on Highland Avenue. He struck a car driven by Gordon R. Brantley, 49, 201 First St., which was headed east on Third Street.

Fazzi was ticketed for failure to yield at a stop intersection. Hospitalized besides the drivers, were passengers Laura Fazzi and Grace Otto.

Fight leads to arrest

Curtis Beauchamp, 42, Leaf River, was arrested by Lee County Sheriff's Deputies Friday evening and charged with disorderly conduct.

Authorities were notified by Darlene Beauchamp that her father was fighting at a residence on Brinton Avenue, just north of the State School.

Beauchamp was released on bond. His court appearance was scheduled for Aug. 28.

Cited by police

Danny T. Walter, 16, Rt. 4, was charged by Dixon police with leaving the scene of a Friday night accident.

Walter reportedly backed out of the parking lot at Jack Andrews Package Store at a high rate of speed. He struck a station wagon belonging to Jerome Richter parked in the 100 block of East Fifth Street, according to police.

Damage to the Richter vehicle was unknown.

Showers plague wide area

By The Associated Press
Showers and occasional thunderstorms continued scattered through the Plains states today while more ranged from southwest Texas and through the Ohio Valley to the Middle Atlantic coastal area.

Locally heavy rains late Friday brought flash-flood warnings to portions of West Virginia, Ohio and southeast Missouri.

More than 2 inches of rain swamped parts of Texas. Soakings of nearly an inch were measured at Las Vegas, N.M.; Park Falls, Wis., and Hobbs, N.M.

Skies were cloudy over the northern Great Lakes region while clear or partly cloudy skies prevailed elsewhere in the nation.

Cooler weather was the rule in the northern and southern Plains and the Ohio Valley. Temperatures before dawn

Lane has a dozen lettermen back

By MIKE CUNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor

WALNUT — A dozen lettermen out of a varsity squad of 26 candidates hold the key to the success of the 1975 Walnut Blue Raiders football season under head coach Chuck Lane, now in his 12th campaign as mentor.

Lane has compiled a 63-36-1 record in his 11 seasons but the Blue Raiders slipped to a 3-6 ledger last season. What are the plusses Lane is counting on to rebound from the less than .500 campaign?

"Our line will be bigger and more experienced," Lane said Thursday. "From tackle to tackle, we are going to have fair size. We won't be real big — from 185 to 195 pounds — but we won't be small either. Along with bigger and more experienced people up front, we think we will be a little quicker."

"Good Attitude So Far"

"The kids so far have had a good attitude," Lane continued. "Of course, we haven't had that much practice yet. Toby Greenwood will help us in the backfield with two seasons of varsity experience. Everything else in the backfield is new and an unknown quantity."

Greenwood carried the ball 127 times for 574 yards and a 4.5 average in 1974. The senior scored six touchdowns rushing and one on a pass reception plus a pair of two-point conversions to pace the Blue Raiders in points with 46. Joe Gibson, who graduated, had six touchdowns (four rushing) and one PAT for 38 points. Another graduate, Dan Smith was the only other Walnut player in double figures with 20 points.

"Our backfield was wiped out by graduation," Lane admitted, "and finding people to replace will be a problem. We'll be a little smaller overall. We are looking at several people at fullback while Pat Dienslake, Tim Renner and Pete Miller are battling for the halfback slot."

All Three Are Juniors

All three are juniors with Dienslake 5'9"-144, Renner 5'6"-144 and Miller 5'7"-147. "Jack Oberle (tentative quarterback) is not a big kid, either," Lane stated. Oberle is a 5'6"-127 junior who completed five of a dozen passes last year for 47 yards.

The fullback we are looking for needs to be a good blocker," stated Lane, "because we will probably lose some weight and quickness there. It's awfully early to tell who has the best chance of starting right now."

"We have a fair-sized squad in terms of returning lettermen," continued Lane. "Depth will be a problem. It will be hard to find someone to replace Gibson because we don't have any backs his size. I think we will have comparable speed but not as much power."

Other Senior Lettermen

Senior lettermen back besides Greenwood (5'10"-165) include end Joe Brandenburg (6'0"-193), guard Ed Brokaw (5'11"-165), tackles Dick Ganschow (6'1"-189) and Roger Johnson (6'1"-185), end Rob Ohnda (5'10"-165), guard Doug Parker (5'8"-196) and center Ken Wilcoxon (5'9"-173).

Junior letterwinners returning include Oberle, Dienslake, plus tackles Vic Burkey (6'1"-182) and George Dahl 25'10"-175). Others listed on the varsity roster include seniors Mark Devine and Gordon Perino; juniors Bob Drayton, Steve Gugerty, Steve Manek, Pete Miller, Renner, Bill Schauff, and Jim Stone; sophomores Matt Miller, Don Monier, Dean Perino and Tom Renner plus freshmen Doug Anderson, Derrick Carr, Jim Dietz, Jamie Goodale, John Kaecker, Kerry Luezing, Kent Mathew, Craig Matthews, Norman Steele, Craig Ter Bush, Kevin Von Holten and Ron White.

Several Have Been"

"Several of the juniors and sophomores have been impressive so far and could help out in depth," Lane said. "We'll be staying pretty much the same on offense and defense although we will use some new variations to take advantage of the people we have."

"We won't make a lot of wholesale changes but there are certain aspects of the offense we dropped and others we intend to use more. We won't run the option as much although we didn't run it that much last year because our quarterback is small and we don't want him to get much punishment."

"While cutting down on our ability to run the option, it opens up a lot of things we can do. We would like to throw more than we did last year simply to open up the defense. We changed a few patterns and put in a few formation variations. No major things but we hope to do a better job with our passing," added Lane. "It's something we have to do better because we had so many people stacked against us on the run last year."

Confirm the Emphasis

The 1974 statistics confirm the emphasis on the run by the Blue Raiders. Walnut picked up 72 first downs with 60 by rushing and nine by passing. The Blue Raiders accumulated 1,402 of the 1,805 total yards gained on the ground. Of the 16 Walnut touchdowns, 13 were punched across by rushing.

"Our inexperience players are going to have to come a long way for us," Lane asserted. "Some of our lettermen got in enough time for the letter but did not start or really see that much action particularly the juniors. Depth will be the key because we just don't have a lot of numbers."

Lane assessed the Blackhawk Conference race with "Western should probably be number one as far as the pre-season goes mainly because they were 8-1 last year and they return a lot of kids."

"Dunlap Is Dark Horse"

"Dunlap will be a dark horse. They were the frosh-soph champions last year and their varsity had a bad season but they were better than what they appeared. Princeville has got to be counted on also. Wyoming and Manlius will also be decent. The others are unknown quantities."

With a 10-team Blackhawk circuit, each of the nine games Walnut has scheduled is a conference encounter. "When I first got here, I thought not having a game or two in non-conference to open up with was a bad deal," Lane said, "but now I think having a conference game every week is better. There is no way your team can have a mental let down because each game counts in the standings."

Walnut opens at Toulon on Sept. 5 before hosting Wyoming on Sept. 12. The Blue Raiders then travel to Buda, host Bradford, go to Kewanee Wethersfield, host Manlius and travel to Princeville. Home games with Dunlap and Elmwood conclude the season.

Everybody is hustling but the Tigers keep losing

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

"Everybody's been hustling," Ralph Houk said. "There's no dissension, no morale problem. Nobody's bawling anybody else out. A manager can't ask for anything more."

Oh, yeah, Ralph? How's about a victory?

Houk and his Detroit Tigers could be excused if they replied: "What's a victory?" After all, going 19 games without one might tend to dull the senses a bit.

With Friday night's 8-0 shellacking by the California Angels, Detroit crept within one game of the American League mark for this kind of futility. This record—set in 1906 by Boston and matched twice by the old Philadelphia Athletics—is the kind of record any team would be happy to do without.

Rangers 10-1, Orioles 6-13

Tom Grieve cracked a pair of two-run singles and Dave Moates hit a tie-breaking double in the eighth inning to give Texas its first-game victory over Baltimore.

The Orioles stormed back to win the nightcap as Mike Cuellar pitched a five-hitter and Doug DeCinces drove in five runs with a homer and a bases-loaded triple.

Brewers 8, A's 4

George Scott drove in four runs with a pair of homers to carry the Brewers past Oakland and keep the A's from widening their six-game West Division lead over Kansas City.

Yankees 5, Royals 4

Chris Chambliss' two-run double topped off a three-run eighth inning that catapulted New York over the Royals, who got homers from John Mayberry and Tony Solaita.

Twins 8, Indians 4

Rod Carew singled home two runs in a four-run second inning and Steve Braun doubled home two more in a three-run fifth to power the Twins past Cleveland behind Bert Blyleven's six-hitter.

Reds 8, Pirates 3

Johnny Bench hit his 23rd home run of the season, a two-run shot, and Norman cracked his two-run single as the Reds romped past Pittsburgh. Norman, 8-3, held the Pirates to seven hits and raised his career record at Riverfront Stadium to 23-6.

Pittsburgh took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first on Manny Sanguillen's RBI double before the Reds jumped on Jim Rooker, 8-9.

Phillies 4, Padres 3

Luzinski's two-run homer in the first inning and Mike Schmidt's 26th an inning later powered Philadelphia past San Diego.

Luzinski connected off Joe McIntosh, 8-11, after a walk to Larry Bowa. Starting pitcher Dick Ruthven knocked in the fourth run in the fourth inning after a Garry Maddox double.

Cardinals 4-2, Braves 1-1

Successive singles by Ron Fairly, Ted Simmons and Reggie Smith chased rookie Atlanta hurler Mike Thompson after six innings of no-hit pitching in the nightcap.

Mike Tyson drove in the opener's winning run with a bad-hop single in the fifth inning and Reggie Smith added an eighth-inning home run to back Ron Reed's seven-hit pitching.

Giants 6-4, Mets 2-9

Wayne Garrett, Rusty Staub and John Stearns hit home runs for New York in the nightcap.

Cubs lose 4-1

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher Larry Dierker mastered all the Chicago Cubs batters except one Friday night to help the Astros break a three-game losing streak.

Only third-baseman Bill Madlock, who went three for four, had any success against the veteran Dierker, who drove in one run himself with a single in Houston's 4-1 victory.

"I tried to get ahead of Madlock each time," Dierker said of the rookie, who has hit safely in 10 of his last 12 at bats. "He'd just turn around and hit a pretty good pitch off me for a hit."

Chicago took a 1-0 lead in the third when Jose Cardenal hit a double to shallow centerfield and when Astro centerfielder Cesar Cedeño threw wildly to second, Madlock scored from third.

Houston shortstop Roger Metzger slipped to the leftfield wall to start the fifth inning and Dierker tied the game with a single to right field.

Cliff Johnson's double in the seventh inning produced two runs. Greg Gross doubled and scored on Johnson's hit and when Cardenal bobbled Johnson's hit, Cedeño also scored. Milt May scored Johnson with a single later in the inning.

"The thing that kept me alive tonight was my control," said Dierker, 11-12. "I was lucky to get the first two batters out in the first inning. It would have been terrible to walk the first two batters of the game. After the first inning, I regained my control and began to hit the corners."

Houston Manager Preston Gomez said Dierker does not have a good fast ball but pitches smartly.

Red Sox gain half a game

CHICAGO (AP) — Every-body expected the Boston Red Sox to be somewhat tired for Friday night's game against the Chicago White Sox with having played on the West Coast a night earlier and also having the Baltimore Orioles putting on a strong chase.

On the contrary, the "rested" Red Sox not only defeated the White Sox 3-2 on the hitting of Cecil Cooper and the pitching of Luis Tiant but they also gained a half game on the Orioles who were busy splitting a doubleheader with the Texas Rangers.

Instead of leaving Anaheim for Chicago after Thursday night's loss, the Red Sox went to Los Angeles and stayed overnight. Then they flew into Chicago.

"We came to the park and were ready to play," said Manager Darrell Johnson. "I think the decision to stay over in LA helped."

The Red Sox also took another rest precaution by sending Tiant in one day ahead of the team and the Cuban right-hander responded with a neat seven-hitter for his 15th victory against 11 losses and his 14th complete game.

Tiant allowed only three hits over the last six innings and was aided by double plays in the fourth and fifth innings.

"I made my pitch when I needed it," said Tiant. "Complete games make no difference to me. What we want is to win the pennant. I felt good at the end."

Cooper set the pace on offense for the Red Sox as he smashed out three hits including a triple and his 11th homer of the year. Cooper tripled in the second and scored on Rico Petrocelli's sacrifice fly. He homered in the fourth and also singled in the eighth.

However, what proved to be the winning run came in the sixth when Fred Lynn walked, took second on an infield out and scored on a single by Rick Miller.

The victim of the assault was Jesse Jefferson who matched Tiant's yield of seven hits but suffered his seventh loss against three victories.

"Jefferson's going to be a heckuva pitcher," said White Sox Manager Chuck Tanner.

SUBLETTE — Members of the Idle-A-While Club met recently at the home of Josephine Burkardt. A dessert preceded games of bridge and prizes were won by Irene Kelly, high; Vida Robbins, all-cut; Sylvene Lally, 80-honors; and Florence Malach, low.

The next meeting of the group will be Aug. 22 at the home of Vio McGrath.

Reading program ends

WALNUT — One hundred and thirty-four students took part in the summer reading program sponsored by the Walnut Township Memorial library. Carol Jacobs, who will enter the third grade in the fall, read the most books, 212. As of August 6, a total of 2,534 books had been reported by participants in the program. Certificates and awards may be picked up at the library any time before school starts.

New paperback books given to the library by Mrs. Margaret Feldges are "After Rain," by Netta Muskett; "When Only the Bougainvillea blooms," by Iona Charles. Science fiction paperbacks that have been given to the library are: "The Science Fiction Hall of Fame," edited by Ben Bova; "Forward in Time," by Ben Bova; "A Touch of Eternity," by Clark Darlton; "Pebble in the Sky," by Isaac Asimov; "Mission of Gravity," by Hal Clement; and "Star Trek-Log One," by Alan Dean Foster.

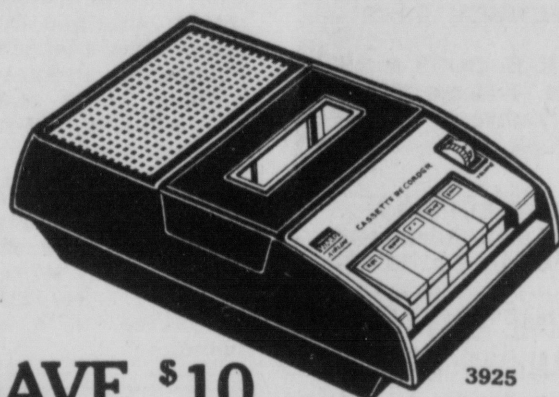

The library has recently bought the new Subject Guide to Books in Print, an invaluable aid in finding books on chosen subjects and Watchman's Stone by Rona Randall, romantic suspense about a hasty marriage that places the heroine in the midst of a murder plot with no clue as to who she must fear. A number of new books have been received on long term loan from the Starved Rock Library system and will be listed soon in the paper.

For Sunday, Aug. 17, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Follow your instincts where ambitious interests are concerned today. Don't let detectors throw you off-course.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Leave your work in the office or shop today. Injecting business into a social situation will spoil your fun.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Take care of a family matter that has commercial overtones early today. This is a top-priority issue. It must be attended to NOW.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you come face-to-face with a relative who has an old ax to grind, side-step the issue today. It can't be settled. Hard feelings could result.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't let someone dictate how and what you should spend your money for. Unless they share your obligations, they have no right to talk.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Your easygoing, fun-loving mood makes you vulnerable to a con job by one with selfish motives. Careful who you grubstake.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Service to family above self is most beneficial to you today, though you'll try to fight it. You'll be glad you gave into nobler instincts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Suppress your more serious motives today. Get in the swim of things with friends who know you need to let your hair down.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Don't fritter time away with small talk. Let those you negotiate with know you mean business when discussing your purse or career.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Acknowledge publicly today the help of those who have been instrumental in your success. This will assure their continued loyalty.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Be grateful for a favor done by a friend. You may have expected more, but recall: She wasn't obligated to do anything.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A close associate has the reputation of being cool under fire.
She's the person to talk to before making any decision you're unsure of.

Your Birthday
Aug. 17, 1975

A promising year is in store for you careerwise. Increased income will make it possible for you to get those luxury items
you've previously denied yourself.
